

Families in Action

A Published and Digital Resource

Families in Action

Engaging Families in Children's Learning and Wellbeing

This family learning resource provides a framework for school leaders that reflects current government policy. It is presented as a published and digital resource with practical ready-made learning sessions for families and family learning activities with children at home.

These resource sessions will enable schools to measure and evaluate current practice in parental involvement and engagement and provide an accurate reflection of their partnership working.

The resource will:

- enable a strong ethos of trust with families
- empower families by enabling them to be valued partners
- enable meaningful dialogue with families' and encourage their participation in decision making about their children's learning
- support families to become more engaged in their child/ren's learning and wellbeing at school and in the home.
- ensure improved outcomes through a range of approaches
- promote partnership working by offering families more opportunities to be involved in school life
- clarify curricular terminology, lifelong learning, government policy and priorities
- support families to have a positive impact on their child/ren's attainment and achievement
- increase their confidence and capacity to support their child/ren's wellbeing and learning at home
- provide opportunities to gather and share information between families and the school
- enable and empower parental representation

Families in Action

Engaging Families in Children's Learning and Wellbeing

Session 8: How do we support children's emotional wellbeing?

Activity: My emotions statements Part 1 & 2

Family activity at home:

1. Explain the purpose of the home activity to your children including why it is important to:
 - understand what we mean by our emotions and that we can have mixed emotions
 - be able to express our emotions in different situations
 - be able to identify ways to manage emotions and who to talk to
2. Agree to watch a sporting event, a film, a soap opera, Britain's Got Talent or the X Factor results, then ask your children to identify and discuss some of the emotions portrayed by the actors or finalists. Discuss with them and establish that we can experience several emotions during any situation. These can be positive, negative or both – this can be challenging for people, even adults.
3. Encourage your children to choose one or both of activities provided My emotions statements Part 1 and 2 and complete.
4. Support your children to discuss how they felt during one of the negative experiences. What could they do to feel better and if they had to experience it again how could they improve the experience?
5. Explain that not everyone reacts in the same way to the same situation and that some situations are not what they at first appear to be.
6. Encourage them to identify people in school who listen to them, who will help them to cope with their emotions and recognise why these people are easy to talk to and trust.

Session 8: How do we support children's emotional wellbeing?

Activity: My emotions statements Part 1

Consider the statements below and complete in relation to the emotions you think your child/ren might experience

Positive	Column 1 Statements - What feelings would you experience?	Negative	Column 2 Statements - What feelings would you experience?
You are having a birthday party.		Your best friend did not turn up.
You are told by your teacher that you have won a competition.		You get teased by your classmates about winning the competition.
You hear that your friend is having a sleepover or football day for friends on his/her birthday.		Everyone else gets an invitation except you.
You are selected for the school show.		You don't want to participate but are too frightened to say anything.
